

ABSTRACT

A vaso-occlusive device includes a member that forms a series of at least four successive loops, each loop of the series having a different axis than, and lying in a separate plane from, any other loop of the series. Each plane in which 5 a loop lies forms an angle greater than 30 degrees with any immediately proceeding, and any immediately succeeding, plane.